

Even with the NO-CALL LAW I get calls from telemarketers. Before the law, however, the situation was intolerable. These telemarketers just won't take no for an answer. And sometimes, even when we thought they had understood we ment NO, we'd get something through the mail saying that we had requested it. I got to the point where I began to just talk jiberish to them when they called, acting as if I didn't speak English. Once I even asked if I could bill them for my time. PLEASE LEAVE INDIANA'S NO CALL LAW ALONE. The Banks can send me mail, and I don't mean e-mail!!!
